H. C. BOLTON DEAD.

H. C. Bolton, a prominent farmer living six miles south-west of Hickman near State Line, died Monday surrounded by loving friends, yet

He was sixty years of age, and usually in good health until suddenly ttacked by a serious stomach trouble, not many days ago. He was attended by his family physician Dr Self until the last.

Mr. Bolton was a man of sterling qualities, a friend to every one, a foe to none. He was one of the Star's oldest subscribers, and it is with profound sorrow that we announce his demise.

Remains will be interred Wednesday at Barnetts graveyard.

W. H. Evans and Neeley Evans of Woodland, were here Saturday last, while in the city, they were pleasant callers at the Star office.
